TERRAZAS WILL PAY $500,000 TO GEN. VILLA BY TO-MORROW TO SAVE THE LIFE OF HIS SON

Princely Ransom Speeding to Rebel Chieftain at Chihuahua After Threat to Kill Son of Once Richest Man in Mexico.

EL PASO, Tex., March 5.—Through territory swarming with rebels who bore the name of Terrazas, a messenger is speeding to-night with $500,000 in gold, which must be delivered to Gen. Francisco Villa by to-morrow night or Don Luis Terrazas Jr., son of Mexico's once richest man, will be executed.

"The negotiations for the payment of ransom have gone far enough. You must send me $500,000 in gold by to-morrow or I will execute your son," was the message Villa sent to Gen. Luis Terrazas, once the largest land owner and one of the richest men in the world.

Great efforts were made to keep the demand secret, but the news, which has been verified, leaked out from the office of the Terrazas agents to press the urgency of the matter, so a messenger might leave last night. This messenger was told that the messenger would arrive in Ciudad Chihuahua to-morrow night.

A month ago Alberto Terrazas, a brother of Luis Jr., bought a small fruit farm in California, and lives there simply. The once fabulously rich family has but a few hundred thousand dollars left.

For many months Don Luis has been held a prisoner at Ciudad Chihuahua, and there have been several reports that he had been executed for failure to pay the ransom the rebels have insistently demanded of his wealthy father.

But so sure have the rebels been that the older man would rather give up any sum than lose his son, they have withheld their hand. Repeatedly have they tortured the young Don Luis, hanging him up by the thumbs for hours, and recently he was threatened by force to confess the hiding place of $500,000 in gold, secreted by his father. But the rebels, learning of this great amount, continued their tortures, hoping that even a larger sum would be forthcoming in the confusion.

FATHER OWNED THE GREATEST RANCH IN THE WORLD.

Before the revolution Gen. Luis Terrazas, his father, owned the largest ranch in the world. It was in the State of Chihuahua and measured 150 miles from north to south and 200 miles from east to west—5,000,000 acres in all. This great tract was confiscated by the rebels some time ago. He had a million head of cattle, 700,000 head of sheep and at least 100,000 horses. His average sales of cattle were 150,000 annually and of sheep 100,000.

The palatial home of the Terrazas near Ciudad Chihuahua, had accommodations for 500 guests, and is said to have been more elaborate in its appointments than any castle of the German Emperor.

Gen. Terrazas has been practically bankrupted by his great wealth by the various revolutions which have shaken Mexico, although it is said that he brought into the United States from Ojinaga $5,000,000 in gold in his coach, drawn by eight horses. He sought refuge in Los Angeles, Cal. He was a staunch backer of Diaz, under whose laws he established his great ranch since 1894. He is the father of eleven sons.

So great is the agricultural value of Gen. Terrazas's ranch that not long ago an American syndicate offered Gen. Villa $5,000,000 for it, willingly taking the chance that Villa would eventually succeed in establishing his own government in the country.

OPEN TOWN, NO, DON'T THINK THAT! WARNS MAYOR

He'll Follow a Middle Course, and Some "Gentlemen" Better Look Out.

BUT LID WILL BE UP.

All-Nighters Will Have Places Where They Can Eat and Drink.

"I have no intention of changing my mind on the arduous question," said Mayor Mitchell to-day, "but it is my plan to adopt a middle course in the matter of granting all night licenses."

"By the middle course I mean one between the plan of throwing men and women out of restaurants at 1 o'clock in the morning and the other extreme of letting restaurants run wild. The latter course I certainly shall not stand for as a measure."

"I hope that the people of this town will find that my proposed action will be a very reasonable one."

"I have heard that there are certain gentlemen in this town," said the Mayor, "who have options on places which they intend to use at a later date for illicit purposes. If the holders of those options are wise they will not take advantage of them to get licenses. It would not pay them to settle down to the kind of business they contemplate."

"It will be remembered that when the late Mayor Gaynor was running for office some of his pronouncements on the question of personal liberty were wrongly interpreted into meaning that there would be a complicity shown toward the licensing of a certain class of places. Perhaps the same interpretation might be placed on my intentions. If such is the case I would like to free their minds of the misconception."

COULDN'T GET KNEES UNDER SCHOOL DESK; TAKES CARBOLIC ACID

Girl, Big and Backward, Is Teased Until She Determines to Die.

Nineteen-year-old Gertrude Schroeder, who drank carbolic acid because the children half her age who were her classmates teased her about being backward in study, will probably recover, but she does not want to live if she has to continue in school. She is at the Knickerbocker Hospital, where a charge of attempted suicide has been made against her.

The girl lives with her mother at No. 13 West One Hundred and Second street and is in the seventh grade in the public school in West Ninety-third street. She has had difficulty in passing her examinations, but her mother kept her in school. "I can't get my knees under the desk," she said a few days ago, "and all the children laugh at me because I have to keep them in the aisle." Boys jeered at her and called her "Fatty." Girls called her "Dummy." Finally she became desperate and resorted to a boy living in the same building with herself that she intended to commit suicide. Her mother found her after she had taken the acid.

Twenty-one-Year-Old Anarchist Who Leads Mobs And His Counsel as They Appeared in Court

(Specially Photographed To-day by a Staff Artist of The Evening World.)

PERSISTENT "MASHER" GIVEN NINETY-DAY TERM

Alfred Schott Is Recognized in Court as Previous Offender.

For the second time in two weeks, Alfred Schott, an alleged "masher," was sent to Blackwell's Island to-day for annoying women in the street. This time Magistrate Barlow, in Yorkville Police Court, sent him to the workhouse for ninety days. The time he served for his offense of two weeks ago was ten days. He might have received a shorter term to-day had not some of the court attendants recognized him and told the court of his appearance before Magistrate Ten Eyck two weeks ago.

Schott, who is twenty-six years old and a salesman, lives at No. 163 East Eighty-second street. He is said to have tried to make the acquaintance of Mrs. Anna Hauser in Eighty-sixth street near Second avenue as she came out of a store. She grabbed him and was slapping his face when Policeman Rogers of the East Eighty-eighth street station jumped off a passing car and arrested him.

NO TALK WITH GOETHALS.

Won't Be, Mayor Says, Until Colonel Finishes His Business.

Mayor Mitchell says he has had no further talk or communication of any kind with Col. Goethals since meeting and greeting him last night in Carnegie Hall.

"I don't think either of us will be over anxious for a talk until the Colonel has concluded his business with his superior officers," said the Mayor.

WILSON URGES REPEAL OF PANAMA TOLLS EXEMPTION

Assumes Personal Responsibility in Calling for Reversal of Democratic Policy.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—"I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the Administration. I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure."

This was a dominant utterance in a four minute speech by President Wilson to Congress to-day, urging the repeal of the exemption of tolls to American vessels passing through the Panama canal. His address, though exceptionally brief, was portentous, for the President in making the plea, called for a reversal of Democratic policy on the question and risked a serious party clash in Senate and House.

The President's address comprised 417 words. He began at 12:35 P. M. and finished at 12:39. Despite bad weather the House was crowded with notables, but a conspicuous absentee was Ambassador Spring-Rice of Great Britain, who represents the nation especially concerned in the repeal.

The President did not directly mention the Baltimore platform declaration for free tolls.

"I come now to speak upon a matter, with regard to which I am charged in a peculiar degree, by the Constitution itself, with personal responsibility," he said. "I have come to state a fact and a situation."

After saying that the exemption "constitutes a mistaken economic policy" the President said that every na-

Bail for Tannenbaum, Boastful Anarchist and Defier of Police, Raised to $7,500, and He Has Been Unable to Furnish It

190 OF HIS FOLLOWERS PUT UP FIGHT IN COURT

Delay Proceedings by Demanding Separate Trials, and All Are Sent Back to Jail for the Night

Frank Tannenbaum, the anarchist who led a mob into St. Alphonsus's Roman Catholic Church, in West Broadway, last night while a religious service was in progress, was held in $7,500 bail to-day in Jefferson Market Police Court on a charge of inciting to riot. This crime is a felony. Tannenbaum was unable to get bail.

The 190 of Tannenbaum's followers who were arrested with him last night, charged with disorderly conduct, were arraigned before Magistrate Campbell in the old Police Headquarters in Mulberry street this afternoon, but only one was examined. By some sort of arrangement the grimy, greasy horde—many of whom are unable to speak understandable English—elected to demand a separate examination for each individual.

"It is their right," said the Magistrate, "but it will be a great hardship upon the prisoners. They are all charged with the same offense; the evidence against one would be the evidence against all, and they might as well be tried together."

The apparent plan of the outfit was to cause all the trouble possible. It was decided to take them in alphabetical order. J. Albert, an Austrian designer, who has been in this country seven years and has never asked for his first citizenship papers, was the first arraigned.

SAID HE WAS HUNGRY AND FOLLOWED THE CROWD. He said he was out of work and hungry and followed the crowd in the hope of getting something to eat. Gustav Miller, a woman who was arrested and paroled last night, volunteered to be a witness for Albert. She declared that the crowd was orderly in the church.

"Were you told to get out?" she was asked.

"We were," she replied. "Then why didn't you get out when ordered from a place of worship on private property into which you had forced your way?"

"Well, I just didn't get out, that's all," was her explanation. Lieutenant Gilden testified against Albert. Magistrate Campbell reserved decision and adjourned all the other cases until to-morrow. All the prisoners were sent back to the police court prisons where they had been confined over night.

Although Tannenbaum's followers had announced that the courts could not fix bail high enough to hold him in custody his counsel protested vigorously when Assistant District Attorney Dickinson asked that bail in the case be increased from $5,000 to $10,000. This was when Tannenbaum was arraigned in Jefferson Market Police Court this morning.

ANARCHIST LEADER'S BAIL IS RAISED TO $7,500.

Two police officers and several priests of St. Alphonsus's Church were ready to testify that Tannenbaum had incited his followers to riot in the church and outside. Magistrate Freschi fixed bail at $7,500.

Mrs. Jessie Ashley, who had been expected to put up $10,000 bail, declared that she could not go higher than $5,000. Magistrate Freschi put the bail at $7,500 after Mr. Dickinson had summarized the case for the people. This sum was not in cash.
